HERITAGE LETTER

Summer 2012

Volume 14, Number 1

Ten More Acres of Land Protected Otto Preserve Expands to 104 Acres

Thank you to everyone who contributed to the Campaign to Protect the Otto Preserve Wetland! On April 20, 2012, the Heritage Trust finalized the purchase of the Eliot and Robinson properties adjacent to the Otto Preserve. Together, we have permanently protected the entire northern edge of one of the island's largest wetlands, a vital groundwater resource, and native habitat for wood ducks, warblers, frogs, salamanders, delicate wildflowers and giant trees.

Leadership pledges from individuals, families and every Heritage Trust board member, a donated commission from Lummi Island Realty, grants from Seattle Audubon's Martin Miller Fund, Seattle Foundation's Islands Fund, and the North American Wetland Conservation Act, along with many individual donors raised the $150,000 that made this possible. The Heritage Trust also partnered with our sister organization, The San Juan Preservation Trust. The Preservation Trust will hold a conservation easement that ensures that the important conservation values of the expanded Otto Preserve will be protected forever.

"Betty's Shortcut" is being created on the Robinson parcel to connect the new additions to the existing trails, and allow people to experience this natural environment.

Why the name? According to Jeremy Robinson, the word "shortcut" was always a tongue-in-cheek kind of expression used around his house as a kid. It was an inside joke. Jeremy's stepfather, Walter Crayton, was an avid nature-lover who took the family on grand adventures every summer during Jeremy's teen years, to Utah and the Desert Southwest.

Walter always preferred to travel off the beaten path. Typically, the family would be driving down a perfectly good highway, when he'd turn off on a dirt road with no signs. Invariably, someone would ask, "Where are you going?" He'd say, "It's a shortcut!"

Jeremy's mother, Betty Klahr, often teased Walter, rolling her eyes when he said the word "shortcut." Jeremy says, "The truth is, we enjoyed the shortcuts. We got to see things that most people missed."

Sadly, Betty and Walter both died in a car accident in 2003 while returning from another adventure down to Baja. They were on the freeway at the time they had not taken a shortcut. Jeremy is pleased to see the trail named Betty's Shortcut in memory of Betty and Walter, their love of nature, spirit of adventure, and their good-natured sense of humor.

A Milestone on the Path to Accreditation

The Heritage Trust staff and board have been busy working on our application to become an accredited land trust through the Land Trust Accreditation Commission. Land trust accreditation answers the demand of the public and donors for accountability and assurance from land trusts of their ability to protect important natural places forever.

We are pleased to announce our completion of the pre-application phase of the process. Preparation for accreditation began in April 2011, and we remain on target to submit an application in September 2012. The Land Trust Accreditation Commission will perform an extensive review of our policies and programs, including a public comment period, to ensure that our organizational operations are strong, efficient, trustworthy and ethical.

The Heritage Trust has always followed high standards in our business practices and believes that we owe it to our donors, our landowners, and the lands we protect to be an efficient, professional organization sustainable far into the future. Red Columbine
